

THE HOUSE OF Love make their first visit to Ireland later this month. Fronted by Guy Chadwick, this guitar-pop outfit have been British indie favourites for some time. Their eponymously titled debut album released on Creation Records last year quickly became one of the label's biggest sellers ever.

The House Of Love have established a reputation as a formidable live band and have a number of British TV appearances to their credit. They play McGonagles on February 24th.
