House Of Love "Beatles & Stones" (Fontana/Mercury) This South London quartet has already made solid in-roads at Expand-O Radio via ^{via} "I Don't Know Why I Love You," the first single from their Fontana/Mercury debut. "Beatles & Stones" is a haunting, psychedelic-tinged song that will add atmosphere to any set of contemporary rock music. The densely layered keyboards make a great backdrop for the lilting lead guitars. Look for the song on the new CD Tune Up, at radio on Monday.

Psychefunkapus "We Are The Young" (Atlantic) We're stoked to see Atlantic go back and work Psychefunkapus at Rock Radio. "We Are The Young" is a socially conscious song with a super wah wah guitar sound ("psyche"), a furiously funky bass line ("funka") that's right in your face ("pus"). This San Francisco-based quintet is known for dazzling audiences with their frenetic live shows...kind of Living Colour meets Faith No More at a Red Hot Chili Peppers show. If you're looking for a song to spark the airwaves and cause an instant reaction on the phones, look for CD single service of "We Are The Young."
