The House of Love released their self-titled debut album on Creation Records in1988. Produced by Pat Collier, it became an instant classic and included the monumental single Christine. The album was followed in the same year by the single Destroy The Heart, which grabbed the top spot in John Peel's Festive Fifty of 1988.

1989 saw the band sign to Fontana. Their debut album for the label, again self titled, released the following year, spawned the singles Shine On, I Don't Know Why I Love You & The Beatles And The Stones. Two further albums followed for Fontana, Babe Rainbow (1992) and Audience With the Mind (1993).
