House Of Love

Announce details of re-issue of debut album and Don't Look Back show.

The House Of Love have announced details of the re-issue of their seminal self-titled debut album on 22nd October 2007.

The band are also set to perform the first album in its entirety when they play London's Koko on 13th September as part of the Don't Look Back series of gigs.

They are additionally set to re-release a compilation of early singles and rare tracks on October 22nd. This record, also self-titled, was initially released in 1988 as an import only through Rough Trade Europe and collected together the A & B sides of the bands first 2 singles, Real Animal and Shine On, plus some previously un-released tracks. The re-issue will also feature the A & B sides of the band's seminal single, Destroy The Heart, which didn't appear on the original album.

The band's debut long player was first released on Creation Records in 1988 following their much-acclaimed single, Christine. The 10-track album, featuring classic tracks such as Hope, Man To Child & Love In A Car was quickly hailed as one of the definitive independent releases of the late 1980's.

Long out of print, the re-issue will come lavishly packaged in a card gatefold sleeve featuring the definitive original artwork plus extensive new sleeve notes.

The band re-formed in 2005 to release the warmly received long player, Days Run Away. This incarnation of the House of Love saw original members Guy Chadwick and Terry Bickers re-united for the first time in over a decade. This original line up, also featuring Pete Evans on drums, will perform at the Don't Look Back show in September.

Starting in 2005, the Don't Look Back series features bands playing seminal album works in their entirety and the past few years have seen The Stooges perform Fun House, Teenage Fanclub play Bandwagonesque and Ennio Morricone perform some of his most well known film scores.

Tickets for the show are priced at £17.50 and available via www.seetickets.com or www.wegottickets.com or through a 24hr CC line on 0870 264 3333.
